Since 1928, Spartan College of Aeronautics and Technology has trained over 80,000 pilots and technicians. Our graduates are known worldwide for their caliber of knowledge and skill. The need for trained pilots and technicians in the aviation and technology job markets is rapidly exceeding the availability of quality applicants. This is placing an increased interest in the Spartan graduate and their hands on skills.

You can help! Start by referring a friend that shares your interest in the exciting career field of aviation or technology. Keep in mind, if your friend is accepted, you can both benefit by traveling to Tulsa, studying and training together, and potentially rooming together while pursuing your career goals.
